

AP Introductory Psychology Permission Form

AP Introductory Psychology is a rigorous and demanding college-level course; the workload for the average student is about 9-10 hours per week (including class time). If you would like to enroll in this course, please complete this form and submit it with your 2010-2011 course registration form.

I recommend this student for AP Introductory Psychology, understanding the rigors of the course and believing that this student is capable of successfully completing and contributing to this course.

Signature of current history teacher: _____ Date: _____

Signature of current science teacher: _____ Date: _____

Signature of advisor: _____ Date: _____

I commit to dedicating the necessary amount of time to the course, to doing all of the work assigned to the best of my ability, and to being an informed and active participant in our daily classes.

Signature of student: _____ Date: _____

Fall semester science grade: _____ Fall semester history grade: _____

AP Introductory Psychology Permission Form

AP Introductory Psychology is a rigorous and demanding college-level course; the workload for the average student is about 9-10 hours per week (including class time). If you would like to enroll in this course, please complete this form and submit it with your 2010-2011 course registration form.

I recommend this student for AP Introductory Psychology, understanding the rigors of the course and believing that this student is capable of successfully completing and contributing to this course.

Signature of current history teacher: _____ Date: _____

Signature of current science teacher: _____ Date: _____

Signature of advisor: _____ Date: _____

I commit to dedicating the necessary amount of time to the course, to doing all of the work assigned to the best of my ability, and to being an informed and active participant in our daily classes.

Signature of student: _____ Date: _____

Fall semester science grade: _____ Fall semester history grade: _____